Whole School Update

Well, we have made it! A whole term of 'virtual home learning' - I am super proud of everyone. Despite the difficulties, some amazingly good work has been produced. I have been so impressed by the resilience of staff, children and parents, along with a fierce determination to keep on smiling.

I must say a huge thank you to you all for the kindness and support that you have shown us throughout this awful time. The pandemic is far from over and it will be a long time before we are able to return to any semblance of normal at school. Teachers have been working hard through this week to prepare classrooms, just in case, and I walked around school today to take some photos; I thought you would like to see school again!

A letter has been sent home today to explain our plans for next term. It is a very long letter, but full of important information so please ensure that you read it carefully.

I hope everyone has a wonderful half term and enjoys some relaxation time. I will remain contactable on Dojo if you need to ask any questions. Take care and stay safe - we hope to see some of you, at least, very soon.

Potter Class Update

Potter Class has been absorbed in 'A Tale of Two Feathers' this week and some great nocturnal animals facts have been shared. It is lovely to see your crafts and outside adventures linked to our theme!

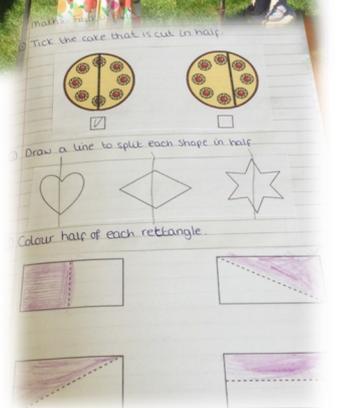

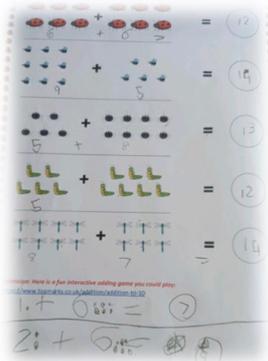

Have a restful and fun half term Potter Class!

Marvellous maths this week! I have seen some careful counting and some accurate fraction work.

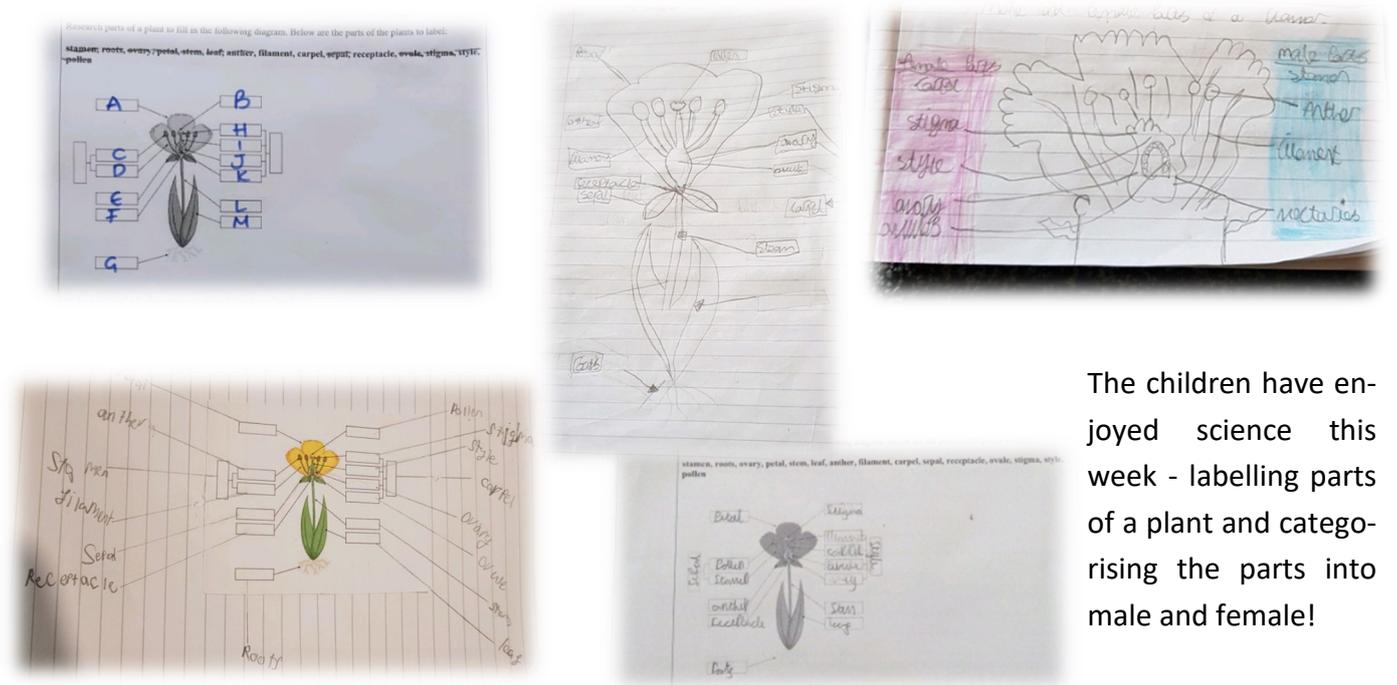

I have enjoyed seeing your hedgehog creations too.

Darwin Class Update

I just want to start by saying a huge thank you to Darwin Class children who have done lots of home learning this term. I know it has been tricky, being at home, but you have all amazed me with how much effort you have put into learning in your home environment. A big thank you to the parents too!

The children have enjoyed science this week - labelling parts of a plant and categorising the parts into male and female!

In maths, Darwin Class has focussed on money and learnt to add and subtract different coins. Money is a tricky topic, so well done, Darwin!

In English, the class has focussed on writing a letter to someone to tell them how life is during this tricky time at home. The children have written about what they are looking forward to when this is over!

In topic, the children had to design their own Greek theatre. I have seen many designs this week which I have been very impressed with. It is clear to see that the children are enjoying the topic of Ancient Greece.

Pankhurst Class Update

As we hit the end of this very strange term, I want to say, again, a huge THANK YOU to Pankhurst Class for working so hard throughout. As I previously posted, about six weeks ago, it is a very odd time to start teaching in a new class, so your responsiveness, your dedication, your perseverance and your tenacity have made my life so much smoother throughout this term. Once again, many of you have really shone this week, which has been demonstrated in the work you have uploaded, and I know you will continue to impress me after the break, wherever we may Shakespeare Class has continued to impress me in the final week of this very peculiar term. I am so proud of the children for their resilience and their commitment to their home learning. The standard of the presentation that I see on a daily basis never fails to put a smile on my face. This week, we have completed some tricky long multiplication, written an 'Extremely Scary Letter' in English and I have seen some incredibly creative work in science and topic. Have a great rest, Shakespeare Class - you deserve it. I hope to see you all soon.
